

IQ PROGRAMS ~ authoring their future

It's here! The answer we've all been waiting for ...

We are currently in the midst of a seismic social experiment. Instead of straight answers to curious questions, young people are met with an “eye-full of everything” via online porn, pop-ups, secret chats, hyper-sexed selfies, and a swipe left or right “judge with a click” instant gratification online culture.

For some, it's easier to turn a blind eye and hope for the best, but hypersexualised images and music, adult-themed video games and unlimited free porn are only a click away. This psychological cocktail and steady stream of toxic messaging is impacting young people's lives.

We shouldn't be surprised at the toll these social challenges are having on our kids' mental health, safety and relational success.

We have two choices. Either leave our kids to their own "devices"—or, confront this toxic culture with the best defence we have—education. Many schools are feeling the burden, but simply don't know where to start.

IQ PROGRAMS equip educators for the task of supporting kids and teens to author their future. Meeting child-safety, developmental and wellbeing needs, teachers receive guided narratives and comprehensive tools to help them deliver tricky conversations confidently.

IQ PROGRAMS provide students with skills to avoid and respond to online risks—and an understanding of how porn and other technologies can affect their developing brain. Students are supported with age-relevant content to cultivate their relational and sexual wellbeing, and build resilience to external cultural pressures.

The result? Children & teens gain a deep respect for the power of choice and change, empowered to challenge social influences for the betterment of themselves, others and the world around them.
